

Conduct rules for graduands of the Faculty of Political, Economic and Social Sciences

Considering the organisational arrangements made by the University and the Faculty, graduands are strongly invited to behave in a way that is appropriate for the place where the graduation session is being held.

To this end, please avoid excessive celebrations during the graduation ceremony, and do not shout nor sing in the common spaces and courtyards of the Faculty, in order not to disturb those who are engaged in other activities, such as studying or attending classes.

Moreover, remember that food and alcoholic beverages are not allowed in the common spaces.

Please share these rules with your family and guests, as you will be responsible for their compliance as well.

Failure to comply with these rules will result in the graduation session being suspended immediately.

Approved by the Managing Committee on 12 November 2013